WILLIAM H. HENRY, TELEPHONE 4504

We all belong to each other, but friendship is the special record of one life with a kindred life. We live in the threshold of a new era, and it is not to be wondered at that we should be looking for new ways of life, and new ways of life with each other. We cannot live our lives in the past, and we cannot live our lives in the future. We must live our lives in the present, and we must live our lives in the present with each other.

FRIDAY'S CALENDAR

Mrs. T. R. Elbright gives morning musical party for her piano pupils. Annual picnic of First Methodist Sunday school at Owen park.

Plan for Furnishing Detention Home.

The Detention Home committee, of which Mrs. John Carson is chairman, and which comprises women prominent in the philanthropic and social life of the city, has decided a plan by which every man, woman and child in the city may be enabled to aid in some way, no matter how small that way may be, in the furnishing of the new detention home recently purchased by the committee together with the Tulsa Humane society, and which is located opposite Grant park.

In short the plan is to give a ten cent Wednesday afternoon at the home, the occasion to be made of a social nature and at the same time one upon which donations of all sorts from a box of matches to a bedstead, will be gratefully received by the committee and put to the best possible use.

Now that the matter of locating and purchasing quarters for a sheltered camp and permanent detention quarters for the care of women, children and all who are in need, all the year through, has been satisfactorily disposed of, the question of adequate comfortable furnishings confronts the committee and the "donation" hour next Wednesday seems not only a probable but possible solution.

The women who compose the committee will be assisted by other members of the humane society in extending informal hospitality and the occasion will not only be a pleasant one socially but one of such worthiness.

Dumplings

For Soups, Stews and Fricassee Chicken

Left overs of roast lamb, veal or beef, the cheaper cuts of fresh meats, and fowls too old for roasting, make delicious and nourishing stews. K C Dumplings make them doubly attractive and the whole dish is most economical—an object to most families while meats are so high and must be made to go as far as possible.

K C Dumplings

By Mrs. Nevada Briggs, the well known baking expert.

2 cups flour; 1 level teaspoonful K C Baking Powder; 1/2 teaspoonful salt; 1/2 cup shortening; milk or cream.

Sift together three times, the flour, baking powder and salt; into this work the shortening and use cream or milk to make a dough less stiff than for biscuits.

Allow the stew to boil down so that the liquid does not cover the meat or chicken. Add half a cup of cold water to stop its boiling and drop the dough in large spoonfuls on top of the meat or chicken. Cover and let boil again for 15 minutes.

Made with K C Baking Powder and steamed in this way, dumplings are as light as biscuits and are delicious with thickened gravy.

This recipe is adapted from one for Chicken Pot Pie in "The Cook's Book" by Janet McKenzie Hill, editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine. The book contains 90 excellent recipes for things that are good to eat and that help reduce the cost of living.

that all Tulsa will respond to the call for assistance.

As stated nothing in the way of furnishings or money will be accepted, and a general invitation is extended to the public to be present. The home may be reached by the Oklahoma (Blue) Traction cars and it will be well worth your time to take a trip out to the park and see where the new home of Tulsa of any size, no matter how small, is being built. The committee will be glad to see you at the home.

T. D. C. State Meeting in September.

The event in the history of the organization of Daughters of the Confederacy in Tulsa will be the annual meeting in this city next September. At the time the city will be the scene of a great gathering of the members of the organization from all over Oklahoma.

The local society is not large and the undertaking which it has shouldered is one which will tax its time, strength and purse of the members. However, by systematically laid plans, the members expect to raise a major part of the amount within the next two months and will have everything in readiness for the coming of delegates from all over Oklahoma. The Oklahoma Confederate Veterans' meeting is also scheduled for Tulsa in September.

Tiger Memorial Picnic.

Thirtieth Sunday school gave its children to the number of one hundred and fifty, their annual picnic and outing at Owen park, Wednesday afternoon and evening. Chaperoned by Mrs. J. W. and Mrs. J. W. McConnelly, the party of children, made their way to beautiful Owen park during the late afternoon and spent the time until supper enjoying the cool shade, playground equipment and bathing beach.

The picnic made ready by the members of the party was just such as one always finds at the time. The Sunday school picnic and outing, the last of the season, the lady retained home after enjoying the early evening hours at this pretty spot.

D. of R. Picnic.

Among the many people parties which are seen daily at Owen park, one of the prettiest appears to be the annual picnic of the Daughters of the Republic of America on Tuesday, with their families and the members of the D. O. R. E. as guests.

It was an afternoon and evening affair and was attended by about one hundred members of the two orders and their families, all of whom sat down to a beautiful picnic spread at supper time. The early evening hours were spent in enjoyment of the playground equipment.

Looking Down on Earth.

Augustus Post writes of the "Experiences of an Airman." He has been up four miles and tells how the earth looks from that altitude.

"For every mile's ascent," he writes, "my eyes take in a new scene, so that at the highest point I have reached, more than four miles, one could see 200 miles on the earth's surface in every direction, unless hazy conditions intervene between the aeronaut and the rest of humanity. Sometimes like fields of polar ice, sometimes like a vast and gold— it is a wonderful thing to see the upper side of a sunset—the floor of clouds, ever shifting, ever taking on more varied shapes, moves beneath you, as you rise through a high-flying one, in a brief white solitude.

"One side of the cloud floor may be red above the last rays of the sun, while waves of orange, purple and sulphurous yellow stretch across to the cold blues of the east and the silver splendor of the moon for it is at full moon that long-distance balloons are always arranged to take place. Here and there faintly the tops of the mountains stretch from the main stretch.

ing beneath you and curl back like giant flowers, they are currents of hot air breaking through the cloud-bank from below.

"Your pulse rate rises; your respiration grows faster; perhaps your hands and feet are a trifle numb, as the barograph needle rises. There is less 'mountain sickness' than you would think, judging from the heavy fog on the high peaks of earth, but then in mountain climbing there is great physical exertion, exhaustion even, and here there is absolute calm—nothing to do but to breathe, and that seems a long way ahead, with no breeze, no sound, no motion, save as some movement of your own lungs the basket a trifle.—American Magazine.

Claim Dog as Ancestor.

There seems to be no end to the stories of strange people and customs to be found in New Guinea. The latest news from this island is given by W. N. Beane, resident magistrate in the Sydney division of New Guinea.

Two of the most interesting expeditions in which Mr. Beane took part were to the Gura country, which for three parts of the year is almost entirely submerged.

These people claim descent from a dog. They possess rice fields, which are drawn out all their houses. Their dwellings are erected on stilts so as to be clear of the water, and the people of each village inhabit one large common house.

The people of this huge building is a kind of a maze, which is used as a storehouse. The women are not allowed to enter the building in the same dress as the men.

In the Gura country of the country the chief is himself a head hunter. He claims to be able to separate his spirit from his body and to send it on various missions, including that of killing people. Quite recently a woman of Gura was sent by the house of a native as when this was a spell of poisoning as him a human bone. They afterwards murdered their victim.

Mr. Beane explored a large tract of country in Dutch New Guinea, where the majority of the people had never before been spotted. These were very primitive folk, armed with bows and arrows. They assume a fierce aspect by inserting kangaroo claws in their nostrils and by wearing in their hair artificial tails extending to their waists.

In one district near Gura it is the custom to brand, by means of a mark on the shoulder, girl children with the mark of the men they are subsequently to marry. Cannibalism still exists.

One of the most curious movements that have recently been brought to light, probably along the northeastern coast, is known as the Baram movement and its operations attract much curiosity. Great respect is paid to snakes, none of which are allowed to be killed.

Father Had a Gun.

"If you kiss me again," declared Miss Lovely firmly, "I shall tell father."

"That's an old tale," replied the bold, bad young man. "Anyway, it's worth it," and he kissed her.

Miss Lovely sprang to her feet. "I shall tell father," she said and left the room.

"Father," she said softly to her parent when she got inside, "Mr. Holder wants to see your new gun."

"All right, I'll take it in to him," said her father, and two minutes later he appeared in the doorway with his gun in his hand.

There was a crash of breaking glass as Mr. Holder dived through the window and departed in all haste for the railway station—Ladies' Home Journal.

Creating Interest.

"I understand that you favor lunch option."

"Yes," replied Colonel Suilwell.

"But you are not a total abstemious yourself."

"No, but my doctor has limited me to a very small allowance, and I like to add as much as possible to the excitement of getting a drink."

To Keep Skin in Fine Condition All Summer

It would be much better for the skin if little cream, powder or rouge were used during the hot months. Mixed with perspiration, dust and grime, these things are anything but beautiful. Ordinary soap, which will do more for the complexion than any of the best of artificial cosmetics, will not give an air, streaked, spotted or pitted appearance. It is the ideal preparation for the season, as it not only keeps the pores clean, but daily removes particles of dirt and oil which have been washed by dust or weather. Its constant use keeps the complexion clear, white, healthy. It does more to ward off a youthful complexion than any of the best of artificial cosmetics. It is a very small allowance, and it completely removes the water complexion. It is applied at night, after a hot bath, and washed off in the morning.

To keep the skin from sagging or wrinkling, or to prevent such conditions, there is nothing better than a face bath made by dissolving a ounce powdered exfoliate in a pint of water.

To Keep Dust From Marring the Complexion

DRY AND DUSTY weather will ruin any complexion unless care is exercised to prevent a chronic harsh and dry condition of the skin. The fine and tiny particles of dust enter the pores, and defy soap and water to remove them. The face becomes rough, hard and discolored from continued presence of dust.

There is one preparation that completely removes every trace of dust and grime from the skin, and leaves it clear, soft, fair, moist and flexible. That preparation is Mme. Isc-bell's Turkish Bath Oil, which is used by so many women, actresses and singers the world over as a substitute for soap and water.

If the neck is scrawny, with loose and sagging skin, as a result of too much scrubbing with the soap and water, use the Turkish Bath Oil, then apply Mme. Isc-bell's Skin Food and Wrinkle Paste. It feeds and nourishes the skin, filling out and obliterating wrinkles.
